

MUSIC NATION: MAJOR LAZER'S DROPS NEW SINGLE "COLD WATER" FEAT. JUSTIN BEIBER

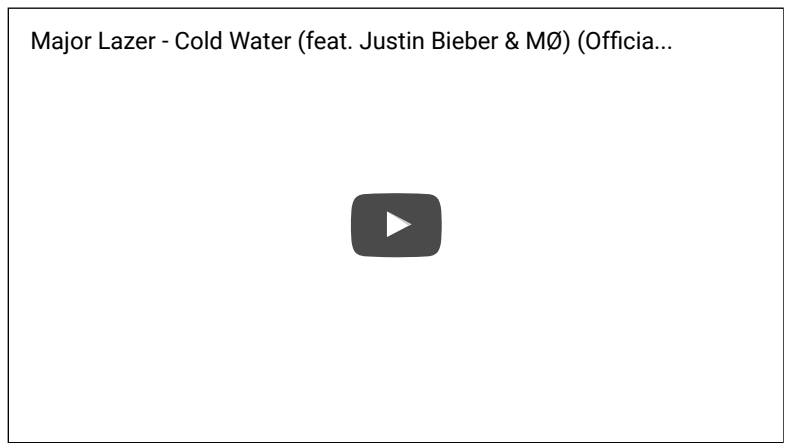

July 26, 2016 · Matt Spence

Major Lazer teams their synth enthused instrumental with the smooth vocal tones of Justin Bieber, and the folksy accent of the relatively unknown artist MO (Karen Marie Ørsted); to produce the new single "Cold Water". It seems Major Lazer have tried to recreate the success gained from the Skrillex, Diplo, and Justin Bieber collaboration in mid 2015- Where Are You Now; which skyrocketed to number 1 in Australia, and overseas.

Cold Water harnesses' the standout R&B vocal quality of Justin Bieber that we have all become familiar with. The Major Lazer-produced instrumental is jam packed with synths, and a slow building bass, which harmonizes well with Bieber's lyrical delivery. I found the addition of MO, didn't really add much to the track; the 27 year old Danish native's vocals seemed out of place within the song.

I'm personally not a fan of Major Lazer, or any kind of dance music, but I believe this is definitely a hit that will please not only Justin Bieber fans (like me) but also the mainstream masses. I still think Justin is at his best with his guitar-in- hand; but there's no denying Cold Water will be on many people's summer playlists.

8
Like
Share

IT'S NATURE VS MAN IN BLUE ROOM THEATRE'S OPENING PSYCHOLOGICAL-ECO-DRAMA, "THE TREMBLING GIANT"

Written and directed by local talent Monty Sallur, The Trembling Giant is an emotional contemporary fable about humanity's relationship with nature.

Howie Ng · live nation, events

SAD GIRLS COLLECTIVE: OPENING NIGHT

Sad Girls is a perth-based female-led artists collective, looking for the answers to life and making art in the process. Read about their launch here.

Isolated Nation · events, live nation, opinion

